

Unit 7 — Restaurant Menus and Taking Orders

Breadcrumbs

small particles of cooked dough usually sprinkled on top of a dish or added to food as an inexpensive ingredient

"The chef forgot my meal, that he had placed under the grill and when it arrived the breadcrumbs were burnt."

Chalkboard

a piece of flat timber painted with matte dark paint (usually black or green) that can be written on; the writing can be rubbed out so it can be rewritten

"The bar's chalkboard had so many different dishes, it was difficult to choose which one to order."

Complain

the process of expressing one's dissatisfaction at something that is not right

"We were forced to complain about the waiter who took ages to take our order, even though we were in the restaurant before the other customers."
